

Cedar Sauna

Lloyd House lives on Hornby Island, off the coast of British Columbia, and he goes to the beach for most of his building materials. The only store-bought supplies in this sauna are Aspenite panels in the conical walls and roof. Red and yellow cedar shingles envelop the building inside and out, like feathers on a plump grouse.

—Chuck Miller

